Democratic State Convention.

HEADQUARTERS DEMOCRATIC STATE
CENTRAL COMMITTEE, COLUMBUS, OHIO, August 15th, 1894.
The Democrats of Ohio are requested to meet in delegate convention in the city of Columbus, Ohio, on Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 18th and 19th, 1894, to place in nomination candidates for the following offices, namely:
Governor of State,
Judge of Supreme Court,
State School Commissioner, Member Board of Public Works.
The bars of representation to said convention to be one delegate for each 500 or each fraction of 500 or over of the number of votes cast for Grover Cleveland for President in 1892. All the delegates to the State Convention shall be individually selected by the several counties and reported to the Committee on Credentials, as many delegations will not be recognized.
The Democrats of each and every county are requested to select their local committee and report the same to the Chairman of the State Central Committee on or before Sept. 1st. This report should include the names and P. O. addresses of each precinct and ward committeeman, and the name and P. O. address of the Chairman and Secretary of the Executive or Campaign Committee for the ensuing year.
In the convention, each county will be entitled to the following representation: FIFTH DISTRICT.
Delegates..... 2
Heur..... 2
Patterson..... 2
Van Wert..... 2
Williams..... 2
Total..... 10
By order of the Democratic State Central Committee.
C. D. CRITCH, Chairman.
W. T. WEAH, Secretary.

DURING the Republican convention Tuesday, the Republican candidate for Congress in this district, DeWitt, was placed on exhibition, but was not paraded before the faithful until after the convention, when he was brought out and his qualities shown up. He is an exceedingly common looking individual, but his looks did not secure him the nomination—it was his barrel, which is a weakness the Republican politician cannot withstand.

THE Signal is advocating the cause of the Damascus ferry, and as it is the organ of the Republican party in this county, it is but reasonable to suppose that it voices the party sentiment. This being so, the Republican candidate for County Commissioner is supposed to advocate the establishment of a ferry at Damascus, at the expense of the people of the whole county. The Signal may think it a stroke of policy, in wanting to place this additional burden upon the people of Henry county, but the people will have something to say in this respect, in all probability.

BRO. RUSSELL, in a measure, has dropped his nonsensical gibberish about our county officials, which was simply given to his readers in weekly doses with the expectation of boosting the Republican cause, but which in reality was proving a boomerang. In lieu he has commenced to give a part of his space to praising his town and county. In doing so, we are glad to see that our advice has not fallen upon stony ground, and that Bro. Russell has taken it home and put it into practice. Keep it up, Bro., you live in one of the best agricultural and governed counties in the State, as well as in a little city which in point of beauty and progressiveness is not excelled in this part of our great and glorious country.

The County Convention.
Every Democrat of Henry county may well feel proud of the convention held upon last Saturday, for there was never a larger or finer convention held within the borders of the county.
The delegates in most part were representative Democrats from over the county, old and young, all bent upon being a credit to the party they represented, not only in their convention deliberations but in their demeanor throughout. The convention was one of the most orderly in the history of the party, and while it was so it did not lack in enthusiasm, for the Democrats seemed to have taken renewed courage, eager to wage anew the battle for the advancement of the principles of the good old party; ready to gird on the armor and do battle for the party of Jefferson, Monroe, Jackson, Douglas, Cleveland, and hundreds of the illustrious statesmen who have served and perpetuated the principles of Democracy.

The ticket nominated is a most excellent one, and while it is admitted that a selection from the candidates before the convention could hardly go amiss, yet the ticket as it is made up will give as good satisfaction as any which could have been nominated. Of the ticket we will speak in more extended terms next week.
The outlook for our party is encouraging in the extreme. Its pledges to the people have been carried out, and all that was promised by the platform of 1892 has been redeemed. The outrageous election laws have been wiped from the statute books, the Sherman silver bill put in its little coffin and silver placed upon the highroad to reach its proper and rightful monetary place, and last but not least, the people relieved of the iniquitous Mc-Kinley law, by the passage of a tariff reform measure, the effects of which is already being felt in the revival of trade throughout the country.

Democrats may well feel rejoiced at what has been accomplished, and what can still be accomplished if every man will put his shoulder to the wheel and help push forward the car of progress and equal rights to all.

THE People's ticket is made up of Republicans or those who have never been identified as Democrats. Democrats should not be deceived by this third ticket movement; it is one of the old Republican schemes, to get Democrats to vote against their party nominations, while the Republicans that are in it will walk up to the polls on election day and cast a solid Republican ballot. The scheme is an old one and has been practiced upon Democrats more times than one. Democrats, look out that it cannot be worked upon you again.

FOR centuries the Napoleon Republican bosses take the entire bakery, oven, pretty slavery and all. Fearing the slim attendance at their county convention, they selected court day and the first day of the fair for the occasion—the consequence being the city wore a lively appearance. Otherwise, the usual amount of stir upon the streets would have been the result. Appearances may go a great ways, but when appearances are gotten up for deception there is nothing gained by it. But, talking about appearances, if there is anything in the old saying, our crowded city on Saturday last presents an overwhelming Democratic vote this fall. So mote it be.

F. B. DEWITT is the Republican nominee for Congress in the 5th district.—Exchange.
DeWitt! DeWitt! The name sounds familiar to us, yet we can scarcely think that it is the same DeWitt who some years ago published a Republican paper in Paulding county, and who attended a Republican county convention, helped nominate a Republican county ticket, put the ticket at the head of his paper, kept it there two weeks, and then took it down and came out in his paper in support of the Democratic county ticket. Will our Republican contemporaries enlighten us as to whether or not this is the same DeWitt. We are merely after correct information in regard to this matter.—Ottawa Sentinel.

FOR some reason or other, best known to the Republican bosses, Mr.
Meyers did not make his speech from the court house steps on Tuesday, as he had announced he would, neither was his name presented to the convention for commissioner. The announcement of his speaking was not on the programme of the convention, in fact Mr. Meyers was completely squelched by the Republican bosses.
He no doubt had an interesting speech to give the people, and in all probability would have told some tales out of school concerning the bulldozing qualities of Bro. Russell and his associates. Mr. Fitch was crowded off the track for Sheriff in like manner, his name was not even mentioned in convention. But the most illy used man of the lot was Mr. Smith, of Damascus, who was made believe by the bosses that he had a showing for Commissioner, when in reality they only intended to use him as a dummy.
How well they succeeded is shown by the vote, he only receiving a few scattering votes.

SENATOR JONES, Republican Senator from Nevada, has left his party and gone over to the Populists.
"GUILTY as indicted" was the verdict of the House Naval committee, upon its investigation of the charges that the Carnegie Co., furnished by fraudulent means bad armor plate or the government. The failure of the Senate to act upon a resolution adopted by the House defers action on the verdict.

But One Jar.
During the entire proceedings of the Henry county democratic convention held last Saturday, but one thing came up that jarred the harmony which seemed to prevail on every hand, and that was the denunciation of Senator Brice which was engrafted in the resolutions. Many of the delegates thought that clause might as well be stricken out, but the convention seen fit to adopt the resolutions as they came from the committee, and as the majority rule is one of the cardinal principles of our party, all democrats acquiesced in the decision, still reserving their individual opinion as to the advisability of the attack upon Senator Brice. In this connection we append the following, engrafted in a letter which has been received from Washington, and which contains truths which democrats cannot help but accept:
"When all the facts are known, it is probable that all the people will have more confidence in the men who were responsible for the tariff bill, than they have at present. The new tariff is spoken of as the Gorman bill and the Brice bill, and these terms are applied to it by the extremists in the Democratic party and the Republicans. It comes from the persons who are opposed to the Democratic organization, the organization which made success possible and which gave the Democrats control of both branches of congress and the administration. The conservative people of the country will say that this is the kind of a tariff that is wanted. It is not so high that people can not receive the benefits of foreign competition, nor yet is it so low that the foreigners can introduce immense amounts of goods into this country and break down home manufactures and leave the people at the mercy of the foreign producer entirely. It may take some time for the country to fully understand this, but when it does it will not regard the tariff bill in the unfavorable light in which some of the friends of so-called tariff reform would be willing to place it.
No one ever heard Senator Brice complain of having the bill bear his name. He never complains of anything for that matter. He may have opinions of men who agree to do certain things, and when they find that it is unpopular for the moment break away from their agreements, but he does not make any great complaint even of this kind of people. He takes it as a matter of course that there will be a certain number of them in every organization. He has found a few in the Senate. This was what made it so hard to secure the 43 votes necessary to pass the tariff bill. They were finally found, and by the most adroit management they were held together. It was part of the duty of Senator Brice to hold them together.
The way he did it may be told some day; all the facts are not now known.
At all events a bill was passed in a Senate which had a majority of three, with one of those openly opposed to the bill, leaving a margin of one to work on. That was what the Ohio Senator found when he counted up the votes to pass the bill. He was one of the Democratic managers; his business sagacity and keen understanding was employed to secure a bill and to hold 43 votes together until it was passed. With the utmost good will and without any task of conciliating warring factions and conceding where he had to.

It was easy to see, and everybody knows who has been at all observant, that a radical bill could not pass the Senate. No man living could have drawn four hundred votes from the Senate floor. Senator Brice secured from over four thousand republican men in the state views as to what the tariff ought to be, and he had incorporated in the bill the middle ground, the medium between both extremes, so far as it was practicable. His plan was good, but he was not given the judgment of what a tariff bill ought to be as certained from reports from his own people.
That was one reason why he became the most interesting figure in the whole tariff struggle. He did not make any long speeches, but he did a great deal of work. He did not announce the administration for the attempts which were made to force the Senate from its position. Brice knew as well as any other man knew, that if the Senate attempted to recede from the position it had taken when 43 votes were secured for the bill, that it would have been defeated.
Brice came in for more abuse than any other man and was heralded everywhere as the agent of the sugar trust, and as one of the men who were holding up tariff legislation.
Sugar was taken care of. The only answer Brice ever made to these accusations, save in vindicating himself before the sugar investigating committee, was to say that a duty on sugar was a part of the plan of the administration. This was long in advance of the letter of Cleveland to Wilson in which the President advocated a duty on sugar, and which was later confirmed by a letter from Secretary Carlisle when it seemed possible that a free sugar bill might be sent to the House. Even in the last letter which Cleveland wrote to Cathings sugar is not mentioned, and it is only coal and iron ore which seems to interest him. The duty on either of these articles does not cut any figure, except to thousands of miners in various portions of the United States.

During the fight the Ohio Senator was serene. He applied the same methods which has made him such a successful man in the past. He always talked freely to the newspaper men, and he told them what was going on. He knew more about it than any other Senator and he did not try to deceive anyone. "My object is to get a tariff bill," he said, "which will repel the McKinley law. For myself, I will vote for any bill which will be sent to the House and which will take up about three months to make such a bill. It is now our object to pass it as soon as possible."

When the bill had finally passed and was in conference, another struggle began. Although the administration was with the House upon the tinkish question of sugar, the public was made to believe that it was on the side of the House and fighting with the House for free sugar. It took some time for the House and the people to learn this, but when it became known, the House took the bill and Cleveland allowed it to become a law. It was while the bill was in conference that Senator Brice manifested some uneasiness. When the Democrats threatened to break away from the caucus agreement and

change the bill in some particulars, its fate was somewhat doubtful. It was Senator Brice who got, or rather forced, Vilas to come back into line when he was going wrong. If Vilas had persisted in his motion to force off the one-eighth differential on sugar, the bill would then and there have been indefinitely postponed. It took a caucus to convince Vilas of it, but he finally knew where the matter stood. Subsequently, when the attempt was being made to change the bill in conference, it was Brice who found out that enough Democratic Senators had agreed among themselves to defeat the bill if the Senate ever got possession of it again. It was Brice who convinced the House leaders and the administration that such was the case; and then followed the action of the House in passing the bill which is now a law, and which even its enemies are obliged to admit
is a good law.

The bill had a very narrow margin
when it passed the Senate on July 3rd. Caffery, of Louisiana, voted against it; Blanchard threatened to do no one could tell what the Populists would do. It has since been learned that the Louisiana Senators were told by Brice that if they voted against the bill because it did not provide for a bonus, and by the fierce denunciations
of political opponents, said Senator Brice one day when he was the target of the most virulent abuse,
right in the end. If a man under these conditions undertakes to please everybody, he pleases nobody and becomes dissatisfied with himself. In these days you cannot change your course under stormy conditions any more than a modern ocean liner can change hers at the shifting of every
wind and tide."

But then the Ohio Senator was looking farther ahead than many others who were getting ready to desert. "It's results I am after," he remarked one day. "I can't go into details about this thing. A schedule here and there may be too big or too low, but the general result is a great improvement over the McKinley law and that is what I am fighting for."

We believe we have found out why the Signal opposes the wiping out of a lot of old road improvement funds by transfer by the county commissioners. By so doing all the reports hereafter made of the condition of funds of the county, which reports by law must be published in the Signal, are curtailed to quite an extent, which of course cuts down the printer's fees. In other words, it is the reduction of the allowance of paper to the Signal that makes it squeal, this and nothing more. As a pap sucker Bro. Russell has proved a roaring success, but his greediness in time will be his downfall. We again warn our brother.

THE Republican County Convention.
The state made up by a coterie of Republican ringsters of Napoleon passed through the Republican county convention on Tuesday, and when it had made the rounds not a scratch or crack was perceptible upon it.
In other words, the Napoleon gentlemen cracked the whip, and the rank and file of the Republican party of Henry county lay crouching at the feet of their masters.
Of course, all outward appearances, the convention machinery was put in motion and kept in motion until the work of the Napoleon gang was consummated. When this was done these gentlemen were quite free with their "I told you so's."
But, there's another convention to come off in November, when the honest Republicans who were squelched at the convention held on Tuesday will have an opportunity to assert their manhood, by voting against the state candidates, which we opine they will not be slow in doing.
The resolutions passed contained the old stereotyped Republican braggadocio and bluster, and Republican sniffle over the condition of Henry county. This is nothing new to the voters of this county, in fact the stuff has got to be a stench in their nostrils.
In numbers the Republican convention was quite respectable, in fact,
one of the largest, if not the largest they ever held in the county. The ticket they have nominated is an average Republican ticket, respectable, but so far from the touch of the mass of the people that the idea of November will find it buried so deep that not even its friends will know where to find it.
The ticket is made up as follows:
Sheriff, John Pender.
Prosecuting Attorney, W. W. Campbell.
Commissioner, Rufus Hill.
Infirmary Director, Geo. Vogel.
Coroner, David Harmon.

Democracy threatened to break away
change the bill in some particulars,

have been comparatively a poor man at death. Hon. Eugene Lane's report shows $61,649.18 paid in, $43,641.15
paid out and $18,008.03 in his hands.
Donaldson was loaded up with half million.—Columbus En.

The above clipping shows how prone people are to overestimate one's wealth. There is scarcely a person of known wealth who is not overestimated as to the amount of his accumulation of this world's goods. For instance, see now Ex-Gov. Foster was overestimated, and everybody thought he was, but when a crisis in his affairs came it was found that he was a poor man. It is far better all around to underestimate one's wealth, and ten to one it would come nearer hitting
the mark.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years pronounced a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment.
Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J.
Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testi-

THE Republican County Convention.
on it.
of Henry county lay crouching at the
feet of their masters.
the old stereotyped Republican brag-
In numbers the Republican convention was quite respectable, in fact,
average Republican ticket, respecta-
where to find it.
The ticket is made up as follows:
Sheriff, John Pender.
bell.
Commissioner, Rufus Hill.
Infirmary Director, Geo. Vogel.
Coroner, David Harmon.

change the bill in some particulars,
forced, Vilas to come back into line
stood. Subsequently, when the at-
found out that enough Democratic Senators had agreed among themselves to defeat the bill if the Senate
is a good law.

The bill had a very narrow margin
when it passed the Senate on July 3rd. Caffery, of Louisiana, voted
against it; Blanchard threatened to
that the Louisiana Senators were told
of political opponents, said Senator
target of the most virulent abuse,
right in the end. If a man under
wind and tide."

remarked one day. "I can't go into
great improvement over the McKin-
ing for."

by transfer by the county commis-
by law must be published in the Signal, are curtailed to quite an extent,
and nothing more. As a pap sucker
Bro. Russell has proved a roaring
our brother.

paid out and $18,008.03 in his hands.
Donaldson was loaded up with half
million.—Columbus En.

the mark.

failing to cure with local treatment, pro-
therefore requires constitutional treatment.
Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J.
Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only
internally in doses from 10 drops to a
fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address:

MR. ROBERT PEEL, a young Englishman, who, because Mr. Sandford, president of Adams Express Co., objects to his marrying his granddaughter, says Mr. Sandford is no gentleman. Perhaps Mr. Peel thinks that parading his love affairs in the columns of the newspapers is an evidence of his own right to be called a gentleman. At any rate, other people do not, notwithstanding his eminent family connections.

THE New Tariff Law.
The evident impetus that has been given to American industry and business by the enactment of the new tariff law is, perhaps, the best justification of that measure, which falls materially short of the legislation which the country has demanded and had a right to expect from Congress.
It should be said, though, in behalf of the House of Representatives, which is to some extent, being blamed for having surrendered to the Senate, that there are good grounds for believing that if it had prolonged the contest, the controllers of the Senate would have defeated all tariff legislation, and subjected the country to a continuance of the oppressive burdens of McKinleyism. Being unable to secure all it desired, the House of Representatives wisely decided to take what it could get in preference to such an alternative as that; and its action commends itself to all right thinking citizens.
Despite its deficiencies, the new tariff law is plainly going to be a benefit to the whole country. It will lessen the outrageous taxation which its predecessor imposed upon the many for the sole benefit of a few favored individuals; it will free our industries from many requirements that burdened and crippled them; and it has already given new life to business in all directions, by putting an end to the uncertainty that has prevailed for nearly a year past.

The whole country stands in need of a business boom. So if the one which the new tariff has started continues, the deficiencies of the measure will be overlooked by the people.—Catholic Columbian.

Now that Congress has adjourned, it is announced that no English money will be put into the Nicaragua canal scheme. Nobody ever seriously believed differently. If the canal is built it will be by the United States government, directly or indirectly, and unless the "boodle" feature is eliminated from the scheme Congress will never pass the necessary legislation.

CHAIRMAN MANLEY, of the republican National committee, is growing wiser. He now says that he sees nothing upon which to base expectation of the Republicans controlling the next House.

Died.
BOKERMAN—Clara F. Infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bokerman, died Friday, Aug. 24th, aged 8 months.

Little Clara the household treasure, Thou art here no more to roam,
For the angels up in Heaven, Took your little darling home.
Weep not mamas for your darling,
She is laid away to rest,
She shall know no pain or sorrow,
She sweetly sleeps on Jesus' breast.
You will miss her little prattling, Miss her playthings on the floor,
But there's one sweet blissful comfort, She's not dead but gone before.
Little Clara the bright eyed darling, She will be with you no more,
Although she's dead to you dear parents,
She lives upon the other shore.
She's gone but not forgotten,
Like the little flower that fades, Thine to blossom in His garden, God has blessed your darling child.

There is no more certain way to raise the cholesterol of a Republican than to tell him that some Democratic official has contributed money to aid the Democratic party. What
